NUMBER 48

NEW PICTURE SHOW TO OPEN ABOUT JULY 1st

As announced in the Advocate last week a new picture theatre will be opened in this city about July 1st, in the building formerly occupied by the P. H. Davis saloon on Main street. The new firm will be composed of Mr. Marvin Gay and Mr. Lewis Judy, both popular and energetic young men, of this city. Mr. Victor Bloomfield, of Winchester, will not be interested in the new business. Owing to his other extensive interests he decided he would not have the time to devote to this enterprise, although he said there was a splendid opening here for a first class picture house. The new building is being remodeled and will be made one of the prettiest little theatres in the State and only the best of films will be shown. Work has already commenced and no expenses will be barred to make this the "theatre beautiful."

These popular young men have many friends who wish them success in their new venture.

POPULAR COUPLE WED

The marriage of Miss Hazel Baskett and Mr. James T. Conroy, of Nicholasville, was solemnized at Georgetown Saturday afternoon at 3:30 in the presence of only a few friends and relatives, Rev. B. Ainsworth officiating.

Miss Baskett is one of Nicholasville's most attractive and popular girls and has many friends throughout Central Kentucky who will be interested in the announcement of her wedding.

Mr. Conroy, who is a son of former Chief of Police John A. Conroy, of this city, has been connected with the Jessamine Journal for the past two years and is a young man of sterling qualities. The Advocate extends best wishes to the happy couple.

DIES IN ALABAMA

Mr. Frank Fitch died at his home in Birmingham, Ala. last Thursday, aged seventy-seven. Deceased formerly lived in this city. He had been in poor health for several months. He is survived by five children, Mrs. Hattie F. Howell, of this city being among the number. The remains were shipped to Lexington for interment. Mrs. Howell has the sympathy of many friends.

SCHOOL CLOSSES

The select school of Mrs. James Prewitt nee (Miss Pearl Bruton), closed Thursday after a very successful year. On Friday the pupils were entertained with a delightful picnic at the old home of Mr. Bruce Young on the Maysville pine.

CITY CROWDED SATURDAY

Splendid Crowd Throngs Stores and Streets and Business Seemed Good.

Although it had been predicted by some that there would be no crowds in Mt. Sterling after the city was voted "dry," Saturday certainly proved to those who made that prediction that they were wrong. The streets and stores were crowded. We interviewed a number of merchants as to how their sales compared with other Saturdays and it was the consensus of opinion that business compared favorably. This was the first Saturday that has passed since the local option law went into effect.

Several business men expressed the belief that if the people would stand back of and assist the officers in the enforcement of the law that Mt. Sterling would continue to be one of the best little cities in the State.

ATTEND BANKERS' MEETING

Messrs. C. B. Patterson, John G. Winn, W. S. Lloyd, C. D. Grubbs, B. Frank Perry and J. O. Greene attended a meeting of the Ninth District Bankers' Association at Maysville last week and report an enjoyable time.

Messrs. Patterson and Winn addressed the meeting and both made excellent impressions upon their hearers.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION WILL BE FORMED

The following letter was sent out last week by Prof. W. O. Hopper.

"It has been proposed that an organization be formed to be known as the 'Mt. Sterling High School Alumni Association.'

That the benefits to be derived from such an organization would be many, is unquestioned—increased enthusiasm, a possible renewal of old friendships, a stronger sentiment in the community for education, a more hearty moral support of our High School and other things 'too numerous to mention.'

Are you interested in such a project? Are you willing to donate one evening and seventy-five cents and attend a 'Get Together' Alumni Banquet, to be given during the Commencement season that an association may be organized? If so, sign the attached slip and mail it at once to the undersigned and if the 'returns' justify it, all arrangements will be made and you will be notified of the time and place of the banquet.

Yours very truly,
W. O. HOPPER."

Prof. Hopper has informed us that he is highly pleased with the returns he has received so far and that he is absolutely certain the association will be formed. If you received one of the above letters and desire to join, sign the slip and return it to Professor Hopper at once.

If you have not received your invitation, send in your name regardless of that fact as the records for some years are not complete and the omission was not intentional. It is probable the banquet will be held June 10th or 11th.

BASE BALL

On Saturday afternoon at Riddle's Park the local High School team was defeated by the Frankfort team by the score of 6 to 3. The game was to have been played Friday but was postponed on account of rain.

"The Rounders" defeated the strong Grassy Lick team at Riddle's Park Saturday afternoon by the score of 7 to 5, in a fairly good game of ball. This was Grassy Lick's first defeat.

The Federals met their first defeat Sunday afternoon at the local park at the hands of a team representing State University, of Lexington, by the score of 13 to 6. The game was a dandy up to the fifth inning when the locals blew up.

LOCKERS REMOVED

Simultaneously with local option becoming effective here, Mt. Sterling Lodge No. 723 B. P. O. Elks removed all lockers from its club rooms and no intoxicants of any kind will hereafter be allowed on the premises.

While the order is made up almost exclusively of non-drinking men, and there were less than half a dozen lockers occupied, the members felt in order to remove all question about its attitude on the subject, all lockers should be removed, hence this step.

No less could have been expected of this order, which stands for law and the highest moral principles.

WINS BIG RACE

Harry Payne Whitney's 7-year-old gelding, Borrow, leased to L. S. Thompson, carrying 126 pounds, won the Kentucky Handicap at a mile and a quarter at Douglas Park over a heavy, holding track Saturday. Hodge was second and Prince Hernis third. Net value of the stake to the winner was $11,700. The time was 2:10 2-5.

GIVES LITTLE SATISFACTION

Expresses Regret at Sinking of American Vessels But Evaded Several Questions.

Germany's reply to the American note sent after the sinking of the Lusitania was delivered to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin Saturday. It does not specifically answer the American representations concerning the sinking of the liner, nor the demand for the discontinuance of submarine warfare on merchant vessels. These points are left for future negotiations. The Berlin note expresses regret for attacks on American vessels, which are said to have been unintentional. Compensation is offered in cases wherein Germany is shown to have been at fault. The note charges, as a basis of negotiations, that the Lusitania was a British naval auxiliary, carrying mounted guns as well as troops and munitions. The United States is asked what steps have been taken, if any, to induce Great Britain to depart from its policy of cutting off Germany's importations of food supplies.

YOUNG COUPLE WED

At the Christian parsonage in this city last Thursday afternoon Miss Nellie Price Henry and Mr. Stanley Alfrey were quietly united in marriage, the Rev. Clyde Darsie officiating. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Henry, of this city, and the groom is a son of Mr. Wm. Alfrey, of the county. He is at present employed by the Adams Express Company, in this city, and is an energetic and popular young man. The popular couple have the best wishes of many friends.

DISPOSES OF INTEREST

Mr. C. T. Evans, formerly of this county, who has for some time been connected with the shoe establishment of J. L. McCord & Co., at Winchester, has disposed of his interest in that firm to his partners, and will move with his family to Mississippi to reside in the future. Mr. Evans recently bought a large plantation in that State. The family have many friends and relatives in Montgomery county who wish for them much prosperity and happiness.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Lieutenant Governor Edward J. McDermott will address the voters of Montgomery county at the Court House in this city next Wednesday, (June 9th.), at 1:30 p. m. He is making an active campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor and his friends claim he is a sure winner.

NO SUNDAY PROGRAM

The important announcement has just been made by the management of the Redpath Chautauquas that there will be no Sunday program this year on the big seven-day circuit, which circuit extends from Jacksonville, Fla., to Waukegan, Ill. This innovation, it is said, will cost more than $20,000. The tent will remain eight days in a place but will be open to the public only seven.

It is not the best policy in the world to be always telling somebody else what you intend to do. The story soon gets to be very tiresome. When you want to do anything and are placed in the position to do it, jump right in; do business from a business basis and talk all you want to later on in the battle of life.

Kind words, kind looks, kind deeds are what win. Try and see.

WILLIAM H. FOREMAN

DIES IN THIS CITY

Mr. William H. Foreman died at the home of his brother, Mr. John W. Foreman, in this city, last Wednesday at eleven o'clock after a long illness of consumption. Mr. Foreman was brought here several days ago from his home at Canon City, Colo., in the hope that the change would benefit him but he gradually grew worse. The burial took place in Macpherson cemetery Thursday. He was a native of this county and made his home here until he located in the West twenty-five years ago, and made frequent visits to Kentucky and never lost interest in the land of his nativity. He was seventy-four years old, a Mason and a veteran of the Union Army in the Civil War. Years ago he was Town Marshal of Mt. Sterling and is remembered as a fearless officer. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. M. Newton, of Canon City, Colo., who was with her father at the last, and two brothers, John W. Foreman, of this city, and Malin Foreman, of Bonham, Texas, and one sister, Mrs. Anna Lockridge, of Lexington.

MAKING BIG GUNS.

From the Solid Ingot of Steel to the Finished Weapon.

A fascinating sight is to watch the first stages in the manufacture of big guns. A solid ingot of steel, some fifty feet in length and weighing about 100 tons, is employed in the making of a thirteen inch gun. After being forged and then allowed to cool, so that it may be toughened for the heavy work, this gigantic bar of steel is pressed into cylindrical shape by a power hydraulic press, which exerts a pressure of anything between 5,000 and 10,000 tons to the square inch. Later what is known as the trepanning operation is carried out—namely, drilling the bore from end to end. Next the bore is rifled.

The most impressive sight, however, is the hardening process, when the rough weapon is heated to dazzling white heat and plunged into a well full of oil. If the operation takes place in the night time the sight of this big, glowing bar of metal being lowered apparently into the bowels of the earth issuing leaping tongues of flames from the burning oil, may be likened to a scene from Dante's "Inferno." The gun is left to cool in the oil bath, out of which it comes hardened, toughened and tempered.

Now follows the wire winding operation to make the weapon stronger and impart to it some measure of elasticity. This wire winding is much the same in principle as the whipping on the handle of a cricket bat. In this case, however, the whipping takes the form of a strong steel ribbon, which is wound around the body of the gun. Every thirteen inch gun has about 120 miles of this steel ribbon wound about it. Some idea of the labor involved in the manufacture of one of these guns may be gathered from the fact that from start to finish the time occupied is twelve months.

The German Empire.

The German empire is made up of four kingdoms, six grand duchies, five duchies, seven principalities, three free Hanse cities and the "reichsland" of Alsace-Lorraine. Hamburg has been a free city since early medieval times and was one of the founders of the Hanseatic League of Free Cities in the thirteenth century. The other free cities of Germany, both dating back with Hamburg to the medieval Hanse league are Bremen and Lubbeck. The free cities are self governing as are the other German states, except in matters which have to do with the empire as a whole, which are taken up by the representative parliament and the kaiser. A small amount of rural territory attaches to each of the Hanse towns.

Mother-of-pearl Buddhas.

The clever priests of China often insert tiny images of Buddha within the shells of a living clam, which are left undisturbed for about a year. At the expiration of that time the images are covered with mother-of-pearl to such an extent that they appear to have grown in this natural manner. The Chinese people hold these shells in great reverence, believing that Buddha dwells within them. However, should a Christian chance to look upon one of the shells it has no further value to them, as its charm is supposed to have left it.—Albany Journal.

No Perpetual Motion.

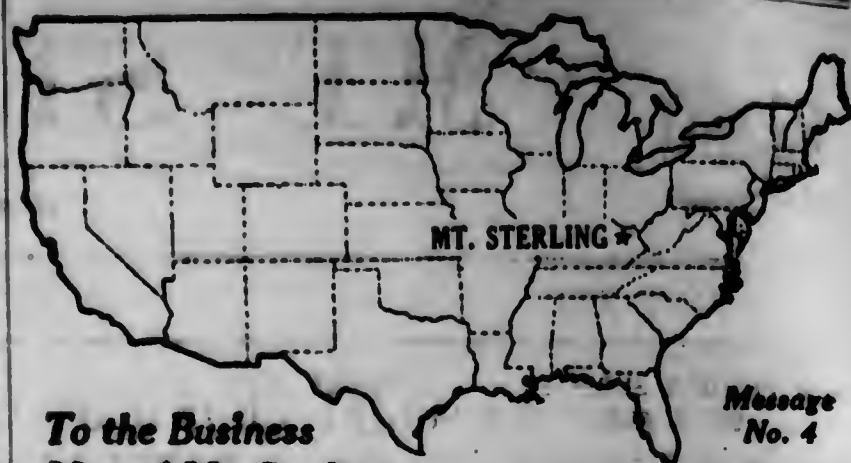

Every machine is constructed to transmit motion or force. In every instance the motion of the machine is derived from without, either from muscular action, or the weight of falling water, or a current of air, or the expansive power of steam or some other natural power. The motion and energy that the machine has gained have been obtained only at the expense of some exterior agent. The quantity of force in existence being fixed no new stock can be created, and therefore a self moving machine is absurd even in name.

The Parrot.

With the ancients the parrot was not a bird to be revered, so far as can be learned. It is not depicted on any of the sacred scenes in stone that tell the strange stories of the religions of the nations of old, nor has it ever been found mummified in the tombs of Egypt. Most likely the ancients thought it an uncanny bird and also a dangerous one, with its capabilities of repeating what is heard.

Brevity Takes Time.

A Scottish minister was once asked how long he would require to prepare a speech. "That depends," said he, "upon how much time I am to occupy in its delivery. If I am to speak for a quarter of an hour I should like a week to prepare. If I am to speak for half an hour three days will do. If I am to go on as long as I like I am ready now."

Message No. 4

To the Business Men of Mt. Sterling

A young doctor, making a start in a small town, decided that to be prosperous he must look prosperous. He bought a new buggy and two good horses. Although he had only a few patients he always kept on the jump, attending to his patients' smallest needs. People began to notice this young doctor driving about town and they called him because he looked busy and prosperous. He got his start—a start that led to a comfortable practice.

Our town, like this doctor, must look prosperous to be prosperous. Clean streets, attractive store windows, well-painted buildings and dwellings give the prosperous air. Well-painted buildings are grown of these.

DO WHAT THE OTHER FELLOW ISN'T THINKING ABOUT

Take it from me, the world moves and you've got to keep up with the band wagon, or be lost to sight in the dust of the road. It won't do to sit still and say "the world owes us all a living." You've got to rise early and dig deep before you get it. The world rushes so fast, it's enough to make your head swim; but it's dangerous to get dizzy. You can take my tip that there is blameworthy little room at the top in any business for a machine. If you haven't got a bunch of originality to chuck into the Game of Life you won't have many cigars named after you. The kid who does simply what is expected of him may hold onto his job all right, and he may be touted as a reliable man, too, but you can take it from me that he won't throw many epidemics of ecstasy into the people who sit up and take notice, and the type-setters won't puncture the epidermis on their fingers much, setting his name in the headlines. "There's nothing succeeds like success," and there's nothing fails like failure. The public doesn't give a brass mounted continental about methods. And let me tell you that the play that cops the coin in any business from politics to banking is the unexpected. Do what the other fellow isn't thinking about, and you will stand them on their heads. There's nothing that will throw a fit of Dementia Americana into the community like the guy who tries a daring stunt and gets away with it, and let me tell you that there's nothing that will put the other fellow so high in the air either. Procrastination is the knock-out drops of success.—Exchange.

Flowers are next to the beauty of woman. Men never fail to admire a beautiful woman. Women mostly admire flowers. We will always find that a woman that loves the cultivation of flowers keeps her house tidy and succeeds in making it pleasant to everybody.

Not Only in Mt. Sterling

Similar Cases Occur Daily in this Vicinity.

Not only here in Mt. Sterling but in our neighboring towns, the same good story is heard. An encouraging instance from Sharpsburg is given here, and will be read by us with great interest.

W. O. Triplett, Sharpsburg, Ky., says: "I was afflicted for several years with kidney trouble; I had pain in the small of my back and twinges when stooping or lifting. My back ached at night and was lame in the morning. I tired easily, was nervous, had dizzy spells and my sight blurred. The passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and I had to get up often during the night. Colds settled on my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Duerson's Drug Store, and they have given me relief."

SAVED HIS REPUTATION.

Curious Experiences of a White Man in Central Africa.

The arrival of a strange white man in any of the villages in central Africa is quite an exciting event. Speaking of his personal experiences in this respect in his book, "Among the Primitive Bakongo," Mr. John H. Weeks says:

"Every one passed remarks on my personal appearance and selected my physical peculiarities for special attention. There were allusions to my youthful appearance, to my neck and nose and absence of a beard. Of course I was unable to understand them, but my colleagues were only too delighted to give a very literal translation of the observations none too quietly passed by the facetious onlookers.

"The town was agog with excitement. There was bartering for food, the haggling about the price of the cassava, the plantain, or the peanuts offered for sale and the worth of the trade goods offered in exchange; the interchange of news, but the greatest of all interest to the local natives centered in the white man. The inhabitants of the village formed a semicircle round his newly borrowed hut and watched his every movement. He strips off his jacket, turns down the collar round his neck and rolls up his shirt sleeves preparatory to a wash, and there are audible remarks about the whiteness of his skin. They eye him critically at his toilet.

"What is that stuff he is rubbing on his hands?" asks one ignoramus. "That," replies a much traveled man, "is what they call soap. See what a lather it makes." And there is much amused contempt in his tones as he gives the bit of information to the untraveled folk in his village.

"The ablutions are finished, and the white man is now drying himself, and while two or three spectators are passing remarks on the using of so good a cloth—towel—for such a purpose a woman on the outskirts of the crowd asks:

"Is that all he is going to wash? Why, we wash all over!"

"And there is disdain mingled with disappointment as she puts the question and a suggestion that the white man is not as clean as he might be. The white man's boy does not like the query in the tone, and as his honor is bound up with his master's he informs the crowd generally that his master bathes regularly in his own town. The woman is answered and the public receives an interesting bit of information, which by and by is distributed among the neighboring villages. The white man's reputation for cleanliness is saved."

Calais' Curious Street.

In Calais not far from the landing pier is what is known as the fisher quarter. The inhabitants of this part of the town, numbering something like 2,000, form a community of their own and live quite apart from the rest of Calais. The young people never think of marrying out of their quarter. Just in the heart of this district is a very narrow street, its width being about five feet at most. The curious thing about it is that the bottom room of every house is quite isolated from the upper rooms, and the tenants who wish to go up to the bedrooms have to come out into the street and enter another doorway, behind which is a flight of steps leading upstairs.

West African Natives.

In all parts of West Africa there are evidences that for centuries before the natives began to import or to buy European cotton goods from the European trader they grew their own cotton and wove on hand looms their own cotton goods. They also manufactured soap and have made free use of it in keeping both their clothes and bodies clean, as may be observed by those who travel through the country. Some wash their bodies, as a religious ceremony, two and three times a day.

In a Bad Way.

A mischievous boy, having got possession of his grandfather's spectacles, privately took out the glasses. When the old gentleman put them on, finding he could not see, he exclaimed, "Mercy on me, I've lost my sight!" but thinking the impediment to vision might be the dirtiness of the glasses took them off to wipe them, when, not feeling them, he still more frightened, cried out, "Why, what's come now? I've lost my feeling too!"

When Silence is Golden.

Let us be silent as to each other's weakness, helpful, tolerant, nay, tender toward each other, or, if we cannot feel tenderness, we may at least feel pity! May we put away from us the satire which scourges and the anger which brands. The oil and the wine of the good Samaritan are of more avail.—Amiel

Selection of your Insurance Agent more important than the selection of your Banker

Before you would deposit money in a bank you would investigate it most carefully. You would have to be satisfied of its ability to pay you your balance which you might want at any time. Now the balance you would keep in the bank is a comparatively small amount—not nearly as large an amount as you might have to demand from your insurance company in case of a sudden loss. In many cases the Insurance Policy protects a person's entire property, while the banker only has your surplus cash. Should your Insurance Agent fail you—you lose ALL, while if your Banker fails, you lose only your surplus cash.

For insurance of any kind

"TALK WITH HOFFMAN"

GET BEHIND THE PLOW

Germany, they say, is one vast truck garden, with scarcely a foot of waste ground. This is the policy adopted by the Germans to insure food for the soldiers and the civil population now that the empire is isolated from the outside world.

And if Germany can put millions of men into her armies and still cultivate all of her land, why is it we Americans cannot accomplish greater results with the land in this country, where we have no wars to swallow up our young men and all are free to work?

Just cast your eye around our own community and note the land untilled, waiting for the man and the plow. Think of the many thousands of dollars this idle land would produce if there were a man behind and a horse in front of that plow. And think of the unemployed all over the country who are complaining of "no work."

It's bunk—all bunk—this cry of "no work." There's plenty of work in the country for those who are willing to turn their hands to honest work wherever it may be found.

The cold fact is, most people are so arbitrary and stubborn they insist on doing certain kinds of work, or they won't work at all.

Our great cities, and even many of the smaller ones, are simply staggering under the burden of the unemployed, and yet there are millions of acres of rich land waiting in vain for some one to till them.

There may even be people right in our immediate vicinity who are willing and bemoaning the so-called lack of work, when as a matter of fact there is work for all of them in the fields adjacent to our little city.

The man who can't work should be pitied and cared for, but the fellow who won't work should be kicked out of the community and left to shift for himself. Too many drones waste the substance of those who create.

It might not be a bad idea for the city to own a big truck garden, where work can be furnished those who are unemployed in case family connections are such that they cannot wander abroad in search of fields that are calling them.

And then every man who is unemployed, or cannot show a visible means of support, might be required to work in this truck garden for a reasonable wage until such time as he can secure employment at his trade or other occupation.

Some such arrangement as this would solve the unemployed problem so far as we are concerned, and other communities could look after themselves.

In any event something should be done to prevent the waste of good land which we see on every hand, and if Germany can do this while her armies are in the field, surely we can do a little better while we have no armies on the move.

The local man who can solve this problem to the satisfaction of the public and the material weal of the community is big enough to be president of the United States.

Who wants to be president?

The first act of some young men on returning from college is to let other people know how little they know.

SENTIMENT SOLIDIFYING

Last week, in our feeble way, we issued a call to arms of all law-abiding citizens to get behind the officers and enforce the local option law, so that our county can be made dry both in name and in fact. The response was far more generous than we had hoped for. By letters and innumerable telephone and personal calls, we have been assured by many leading citizens that they stood ready to do their part. The movement was also promptly endorsed in many pulpits of our county Sunday and we therefore confidently expect violations to be reduced to a minimum.

The law, if endorsed by a good healthy public sentiment, is the most powerful agency known and the best way to make violations infrequent, is to arrest every offender and give every man found guilty the extreme limit of the law. A few such lessons will have a salutary effect throughout the entire county.

We also think an active law and order league would be of incalculable value.

A Problem of the Life to Come.
Small Johnny was wriggling and twisting in a vain endeavor to put his arms through the sleeves of an undergarment and then get it over his head. After several futile attempts he called out to his mother: "Say, mamma, when I get to be an angel, and have wings, I don't see how I'll ever get my shirt on!"

COMICAL PENGUINS.

They Cut a Grotesque Figure, These Birds of the Antarctic.

During the explorations of the ill fated Scott expedition to the south pole Dr. Murray Levick, the zoologist, who accompanied the party, made a special study of that interesting and peculiar bird, the penguin. The results of his studies are given in his book, "The Antarctic Penguins," in which he says: "Imagine a little man standing erect, with two broad paddles instead of arms, with a head small in comparison with his plump, stout body. Imagine this creature with his back covered by a black coat, tapering behind to a pointed tail that drags on the ground and adorned in front with a glossy white breastplate. Have this creature walk on his two feet, and give him at the same time a droll waddle and a pert movement of the head, and you have before you something irresistibly attractive and comical."

"Each year the penguins travel from the pack ice in the north to the far south, where they breed, and this journey over ice and sea covers hundreds of miles. The young penguins travel back with their parents after the breeding season."

"When the breeding season begins the male bird sallies out in search of stones, of which the nest is to be built, and deliberately takes the most useful stones from another nest, if he can get them away unobserved. He then deposits them on the snow and leaves his mate to do the building. His proposal of marriage, too, centers round the building of the nest, for when he has seen the lady of his choice he brings her a pebble. If she accepts it all is well and he then proceeds to bring the stones to build the nest."

A Banknote Tragedy.

In the days when to steal or forge a banknote in England was a crime punishable by death the histories of many notes were tragic in the extreme. The circumstances of one memorable case are peculiarly sad. A young man called Howland was accused by his uncle, a merchant in the city, of stealing a £50 note from the writing table in his study. Although it was not proved that the note had ever been in his possession or that it had been cashed, the circumstances were considered suspicious enough to justify conviction, and the young man, who was popular and of irreproachable character, was sentenced to death. Some years after his execution the note for which his life was sacrificed was found in a recess in the library chimney, where it is supposed a draft had carried it.—London Tit-Bits.

First Japanese in America.

The first Japanese who came to America is said to have been Manjiro Nakahama, a boy of fourteen years, who was picked up by an American sailing vessel in the north Pacific. The boy with some companions had sailed out for deep sea fishing and they were driven from home by a storm. They suffered greatly until they landed on a desert island. The party was rescued by American sailors. The boy's companions were left in Hawaii, but Nakahama came to this country and was sent to school. He later did good service for the American government by acting as interpreter for Commodore Perry in the negotiations with Japan.

Almost Too Cruel.

A New York lawyer said at a dinner, apropos of a certain legal decision:

"It was a cruel blow, as cruel as that which a Bayside cook served on a tramp. This filthy tramp, knocking at the kitchen door, whined:

"I'm terrible hungry, lady. Could ye gimme a small wedge o' fresh pie?"

"We're just out of pie," said the cook, "but here's a cake for you." "And she handed the tramp a cake of soap."

She Knew.

The answer of a little girl in a South London board school recalls some of the brilliant irrelevancy of Artemus Ward. The teacher asked, "What is the chief food of the people of India?" There was a long silence, but at last memories probably of her newspaper reading came to her aid and the child raised her hand. "Famine!" she said.—London Standard.

Wanted No Trimmings.

Little Ollie was much frightened at a thunder shower, and her father told her she shouldn't be, as the rain was good for the grass and her flowers.

Looking up through her tears, Ollie said, "W-well, why c-can't we have j-just plain r-rain?" — Exchange.

Natural Result of Green.
One day Luther Burbank was walking in his garden, when he was accosted by an officious acquaintance, who said: "Well, what are you working on now?" "Trying to cross an eggplant and milkweed," said Mr. Burbank. "And what under heaven do you expect to get from that?" Mr. Burbank calmly resumed his walk. "Custard pie," he said.

In 1908 he was nominated on the Democratic ticket for Lieutenant Governor, but the State that year went Republican.

BACON AND SHAKESPEARE.

And the Dispute as to Who Wrote the Famous Plays.

Francis Bacon, Lord Verulam, was described by Alexander Pope as "the wisest, greatest, meanest of mankind," "confessed bribe taker," and yet he was defended by so eminent a person as Hepworth Dixon as having been innocent of real corruption. Upon his own confession he was degraded from his seat in the house of lords, was deprived of all privileges and property granted by the crown, was confined in the Tower and in every possible way disgraced except by hanging. Yet a little later honors and property were restored, and he died and passed into history not as the meanest but the wisest and greatest of mankind.

Long years after his death came the discussion in regard to his authorship of the plays attributed to William Shakespeare. There had always been discussion of the mystery of these plays, it being asserted that a man of such alleged indifferent accomplishments as the youth of Stratford-on-Avon could not have written them.

Delia Bacon, a far distant relation of Lord Verulam, started in an American publication the assertion that the plays were written by Francis Bacon, who concealed his name for the reason that in the historic dramas were satirical references that would make him liable to accusations of high treason. Of course that seemed silly, as Shakespeare, whose name was given to the plays, was never censured in any way, but it was said to have been especially honored by Queen Elizabeth.

But the argument comes up perennially that Bacon was the author. Books have been written in proof. "Ciphers" have been discovered by this and that person going to prove that Bacon had in that cryptic manner disclosed his authorship, and books were also written to show that it was impossible Bacon could have been the author. And the discussion pro and con still goes on.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

His Wife's Word Was Law.

In the British army the mustache was ordered to be worn by both officers and men just after the Crimean war. Just before Sir Colin Campbell (afterward Lord Clyde) left England for India to undertake the work of suppressing the mutiny he perceived a captain of infantry with a clean shaved upper lip. The general sharply ordered his subordinate to attend to regulations, when the captain responded that his wife objected to a mustache.

Sir Colin thundered: "You can wear whiskers or not, as you like, but your mustache belongs to the queen! Grow it—or sell your commission!"

The captain thought of his wife and said out.—London Chronicle.

Wanted to Make Sure.

It was the dreaded day of examination in arithmetic. "If any one has a question to ask," said Miss Bell, "he must come up to me very quietly."

Teddy sat frowning over the third example: "A little girl had a family of dolls. She gave one-fourth of them away and had six left. How many did she give away?"

Suddenly his face cleared. He arose quietly from his seat and tipped up to Miss Bell.

"Will you please tell me," he whispered, "how many dolls make a family? I've never heard."—Everybody's.

A Beggar's Rebuke.

Perhaps the ablest rebuke ever addressed to a miser was that of a beggar who derisively offered Lord Braco a little silver coin just to get a sight of his lordship's hoarded gold and silver. Now, Lord Braco was of true miser breed, and the mere sight of the silver tempted him to open his chests, whereupon the beggar remarked quietly: "After all, I'm as rich as you, my lord. I can see your gold, and even you have not heart to do any more with it."—Boston Post.

Turn About.

Jones had just been boring the company with an Irish dialect story, and the dialect of it had been something execrable.

"Yes," his friend said cheerfully, "that's the same story, only I heard him tell it about a Scotchman. But the dialect was the same."—Exchange.

CROP CONDITIONS

A great deal of work was accomplished on Montgomery county farms last week, most of it, however, being done in the tobacco fields, where thousands of the young and tender plants were transplanted from beds to the field soils during the heavy season prevalent over the county occasioned by the soaking rains, the first in many weeks. Many of the plants were small, but with the seasonable weather they will get a good start, while in many fields the plants used were of good size and were ready quite early for the transplanting. While most of the work was done by hand, a large per cent. of the plants were put out with a setter, some having been put into the ground before the heavy rains came, and of course they will get the benefit of the excellent water-fall. The season has been a backward one on plants, but there is yet ample time to have plants large enough, as some of our best crops were grown after being set out the 25th of June. The weather has also given those who had tobacco up in the barns a chance to get it down in good shape, and a few growers just finished stripping last season's crop a few days ago.

Corn fields are showing up in an excellent manner and the seed is germinating well and coming up nicely everywhere. The indications are for a good acreage all over the county, and some of the fields are ready for ploughing over. Corn is badly in need of hot sunshine, however, and with a few days of Old Sol shining brightly it will get a good start.

Meadows seem to be doing well, but wheat and rye were slightly damaged by the recent strong wind which was prevalent over this section for several days. The oats crop is looking considerably better and with the good rainfall should make an excellent yield. Bluegrass pastures and clover fields are in fairly good shape, but the crop of bluegrass seed will be exceptionally short in all sections here, and it is believed that the price will be very high this fall.

Gardens are doing splendidly, especially considering the unreasonable weather of the week, which has been wet, cold and just the right sort to make weeds grow, and they are taking advantage of their usual are taking advantage of their right and more of them are seen than usual in the gardens. Growers want a dry day or two to clean up. All vegetables have taken on good growth and with little warm sunshine it will only be a short while until there will be an abundance of home-grown vegetables for the table.

Stock of all kinds is doing well, big cattle being in especially good condition considering the shortness and lateness of bluegrass pastures, which caused heavy feeding until very late in May. There has been a few of these cattle sold, some having been delivered and others not to go until later, but handlers of this class of stock do not seem very anxious to sell at this time, and are waiting developments in regard to price. These cattle are getting fat rapidly now and will show good weight later in the year.

Lambs are getting ready for market in this county, and some purchases have been made for shipment this week, but the purchasers could not take the young lambs on account of the shipment to the Eastern market having been stopped for a short time by the quarantine laws, and lambs from this section will not be allowed to go through. It is believed that these restrictions, however, will be removed by the middle of the month and shipment of the lambs to the Eastern markets will begin. All lambs and practically all wool in the county has been sold, and prices that were obtained made the handlers excellent money.

The outlook is for one of the largest crop of blackberries ever seen in this section of the State. The bushes are fuller of bloom than in many years, and this is generally taken as an indication of a large yield. The yield for the past few years has not been heavy and prices of the berries have been high, but this season it is believed there will be an abundance of them. Cherries are beginning to ripen and the chances are that there will be a good yield, especially of June cherries. Apples seem plentiful, but peaches do not seem to indicate a very bountiful supply.

Eggs are plentiful and can be bought cheap, but milk is still high. Butter is selling at 20 and 25 cents a pound and frying chickens have not yet appeared, although dressed hens are selling at 50 and 60 cents each. The turkey growers are having much trouble and some of them are disgusted and seem ready to quit and throw up the sponge. Many hens are leaving their nests and the heavy rains have caused hundreds of the young turkeys to be drowned.

Young pigs are coming in abundance and seem to be thriving, while hundreds of young calves are seen on the farms, many of which will find their way to Cincinnati and Louisville markets and be sold as veal in a few weeks, thus depleting the foundation for more yearling and two-year-old cattle and necessitating the heavy expense of buying feeding cattle later. When the Kentucky farmer will learn this costly lesson cannot be determined.

BUT ONLY A DREAM

During the summer months millions upon millions of city people will rush off to the country for their two weeks of vacation. They will work hard at play, spend their money, and go home dead tired to face another year of hard work.

But suppose they varied the procedure for one summer as an experiment. Suppose each vacationist spent the two weeks on some farm where labor is scarce, and men are hard to get, and crops are light or wasted because there are not enough men to till or harvest them.

A couple of weeks of moderate work on a farm would be vastly more beneficial to health than the same time spent in tearing around doing nothing.

And millions of dollars of additional produce would be added to the store in the warehouses of the country, the wealth of the land would be enhanced, brawn and muscle would be hardened, brains would become clarified, and humanity would be elevated.

Of course it is only a dream and will never be realized—but dreams are often sweeter than the reality.

Over One Million People Have Paid Admission to Hear Thomas Brooks Fletcher's Lectures

THOMAS BROOKS FLETCHER, WHO IS TO LECTURE HERE CHAUTAUQUE WEEK.

It is estimated that more than 1,000,000 people have paid admission to hear one of the lectures of Thomas Brooks Fletcher, who is appearing on the forthcoming Chautauque program in this city. Mr. Fletcher is now in his tenth year on the Chautauque and Lyceum platform. He is pronounced a leader of the younger lecturers and thinkers of this generation and is one of the greatest dramatic orators on the American platform.

Reports from the lecture course committees that have engaged him class him among the most distinguished orators of the present time. He has been substituted for the late Senator John P. Doolittle and at Findlay, O., two of three years ago was substituted for the famous Ben B. Lindsey of the juvenile court of Denver, Colo., and this was his second appearance before the Findlay audience within eight months. He has lectured in nearly every state in the Union, and his success has been as remarkable in Massachusetts and the New England states as it has been in Iowa and the west. He has appeared before some of the largest college and university courses everywhere, and there are few places where he has not been recalled for the second or third lecture, which would indicate that we are to have perhaps one of the greatest addresses ever delivered in this city.

It is indeed remarkable that a man should be able in so short a time to lecture on the same platform with Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Newell Dwight Hillis, Wendell Phillips, John Temple Graves and many other distinguished men of great intellect and be able to share honors with them in oratorical ability and be pronounced by the audiences the equal of the most dramatic orators of the time.

Mr. Fletcher's lectures contain real messages with a dignified and thoughtful purpose and are helping to make the lecture course and Chautauque live in hundreds of communities.

Besides his extensive lecture work, he is the editor of a live newspaper, the Marion (O.) Tribune, having for a newspaper competitor Hon. Warren G. Harding.

Forty-one people are employed in the Fletcher newspaper plant, almost twice the number employed when the business was purchased two and a half years ago. Marion is one of the best and most rapidly growing cities in Ohio. It is the location of the famous steam shovel industry that helped to build the Panama canal and is a great Chautauque town.

WHAT LIQUOR

MONEY WOULD DO

The American Grocer enumerates some of the benefits which might accrue to the citizens of this country if the annual drink bill, $1,724,908,519, were turned into legitimate channels, namely:

"It would pay interest and sinking fund on the amount necessary to buy comfortable homes for nearly nine million families.

"It would buy a suit of clothes for every man and boy and a dress for every woman and girl in the United States, with enough left over to buy a pair of shoes for everybody.

"If the money spent for drink were spent for homes tenancy would disappear in the United States within one generation.

"If it were spent for education every child in the country would receive a college education.

"If it were spent for automobiles, every family in the country would own a car before 1924.

"If it were spent for religion, it would within less than a decade carry the Gospel to every living creature.

"If it were spent for railroads, it would buy every mile of railroad in the United States in ten years.

"If it were spent for government, it would pay all the expenses of the United States with enough left over to pay the bonded debt of all the States of the Union."

The sweetest songs of life come from the hearts of those who are thankful for Life's little joys and share their blessings with their brethren.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

People often say: "It is hard to improve on nature." Not so very much in the saying. Nature is cruel, immoral and relentless. Back to nature means back to mosquitos and flies and vermin; it means back to malaria, smallpox and yellow fever. If we go far enough back, it means nudity, which is neither comfortable nor beautiful; to cruelty of diet, to drinking polluted waters and sleeping in caves. It means rheumatism, and aches, and pains, festering wounds, and a death rate to counteract which every woman must bear a child a year. If we should go back to nature a man's existence would be only an affair of food and fighting, and woman's life a matter of food and fight and child-bearing.

WAR IN THE HOUSE OF GOD.

We often wonder why there is so much bitter antagonism among the several religious denominations, when the avowed purpose of each is the saving of human souls.

The rivalry is often so keen and the recriminations so bitter that an outsider considers it wise to let them all alone rather than become involved in a religious neighborhood row.

Surely there should be some means whereby the sincere followers of the Nazarene could dwell in harmony and labor side by side in behalf of Christian enlightenment, with the ultimate result that the world would become cleaner, and purer, and better in every way.

Why carry the war into the house of God, where peace alone should dwell?

NEW BRIDGE OVER OHIO RIVER

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company announces that contracts have been let, through a subsidiary company (The Chesapeake & Ohio Northern Railway), for the building of a bridge over the Ohio River near Portsmouth, Ohio, and about thirty miles of new line forming a connection between the Hocking Valley Railway and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway by a trackage arrangement with the Norfolk & Western Railway from Waverly, Ohio to Valley Crossing, Ohio, a distance of about sixty-two miles. The cost of the new line, including the bridge, is estimated to be about $4,500,000, of which $4,000,000 is on deposit with Trustee, being proceeds of the sale of Kanawha & Michigan Stock.

The new line will be of great advantage to the coal mines tributary to the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, insuring a more expeditious movement of coal destined to the Northwest via the Lakes, and also insuring a large tonnage to the Hocking Valley Railway. The New Hocking Valley coal pier at Toledo has great capacity and is unsurpassed on the lakes, and the Chesapeake & Ohio Lines will occupy a more commanding position than ever before. It is hoped that the bridge and new construction will be completed by November 1, 1916.

THAT "DON'T CARE" SPIRIT

Every day, no matter where we go, we are always meeting the man who says, "I don't care." Of course we all know that if he doesn't care there is no one else who will, unless it be someone who is directly injured financially or otherwise by the man with the Don't Care habit.

This kind of a man goes about his work in a desultory way, hardly getting started on one task before he leaves it and starts on something else, and, when his fellow workmen chide him for his desultory habits, he growls and grumbles and sputters, and finally with an angry, "I don't care," he begins another task, leaving the unfinished job to a fellow-worker.

He makes life and labor miserable for himself and everyone who associates or works with him; he is always howling about the high cost of living and starvation wages; nothing in the world suits or satisfies him except the clickety-clack of his own tongue, and he rumbles and roars like an active volcano whenever he chances to get his tongue bitten by his own teeth; and according to the tale of woe which is forever and forever rolling off the tip of his tongue, one is led to believe that he is the most wronged man in the world; that the poor fellow (?) is threatened with annihilation, when all that he needs is good "strap oil" and a dose of anodyne.—Mirror.

This town needs one hundred men of intelligence and determination to start, push and keep pushing a movement to develop both town and country. We offer many opportunities for advancement, if opportunity and seeker can be brought face to face.

Don't depend too much on friends. The best friend a man can have is a reputation for being fair, capable, industrious, polite, intelligent and temperate.

CHALLENGE FROM BASSETT DRUG COMPANY

Offers to Refund Money If Dr. Howard's Specific Will Not Cure Any Case of Constipation or Dyspepsia.

Bassett Drug Company is seeking the worst case of dyspepsia or constipation in Mt. Sterling or vicinity to test Dr. Howard's new specific for the cure of those diseases.

So confident are they that this remarkable medicine will effect a lasting cure in a short time, that they offer to refund the money should it not be successful.

In order to secure the quickest possible introduction they will sell a regular fifty cent package of this medicine at half price, 25 cents.

This specific of Dr. Howard's will cure sick headache, dizzy feelings, constipation, dyspepsia and all forms of malarial and liver trouble. It does not simply give relief for a time; it makes permanent and complete cures.—Adv. 48-49

FOURTH ARTICLE ON CONSOLIDATION OF SCHOOLS

From Bulletin issued by the University of Illinois on the request of the State Farmers Institute of Illinois 1904:

"Indiana reports 181 wagons transporting 2599 children in 51 counties of the State (since the date of this Bulletin there has been immense progress made in Indiana in Consolidation of Schools), the largest number being in La Grange county, where 20 wagons carry 300 children each day, and in Whitley county 73 wagons carry 114 pupils. The following statement is given by H. S. Gilhams, Superintendent of La Grange county, showing savings from Consolidation in that county, in the 8 districts of this county 38 small schools were centralized, additional of 7 teachers to points of Consolidation; savings in number of teachers, 31; in salaries, $10,651.60; in fuel, $2,260; gross reduction of expense, $12,911.60. From this sum is deducted .01 for expense of transporting 428 pupils in 29 wagons to opening of school.

5th. The more remote pupils ride about 5 miles and 60 per cent. ride three miles or less.

6th. Children are kept comfortable in the wagons by stoves, patent heaters, blankets and soap stones.

7th. The greatest advantage to the service is township ownership of wagons and the improvement of roads.

8th. The drivers exercise due responsibility in promptly and safely conveying the children to school and returning them to their homes. They also by contract prohibit questionable language, undue familiarity and boisterous conduct in or about the wagons.

9th. Eighty-five per cent. of the patrons have reported the Consolidated School as their preference in comparison with the "old way."

10th. The better instruction and educational encouragement to the great majority of the conveyed pupils has strengthened the service of the schools and enhanced the local educational spirit.

Pike Shooting in Scotland.

The killing of a fish by a sword by a lieutenant of the Royal Engineers receives much publicity. It may not have been hard to do, for pike often move sluggishly, and on fine warm days they have a habit of basking on the surface. In Scotland people shoot pike regularly, the corpses being brought ashore by retriever dogs. But in Scotland they shoot several things that in England we kill in other ways. Foxes, for example.—London Chronicle.

"Amphibious."

Speaking of fish stories, one cannot help being reminded of the occasion when a committeeman was examining a class of boys in the South "Can any of you," he asked, "tell me what 'amphibious' means, and give a sentence to illustrate?" A bright little dandy held up his hand. "I know, sah! It's lying! Mos' fish stories am fibrous!"—W. B. Allen in Scribner's Magazine.

Read Books in Old Days.

"The kind of books people read nowadays is rather startling." "Yes," replied Mrs. McGudley, "but I have my doubts whether folks stop dancin' long enough to read 'em. When I was young we used to read books and pretend we didn't. Now people pretend they read 'em and don't."

SPECTER SHIPS.

Legends of Shadowy Craft of the New England Coast.

The coast of New England has numerous legends concerning specter ships firmly believed by the rugged fishermen, who assert stoutly that on various occasions glimpses of the shadowy craft have been seen, followed invariably by fatal disaster. The specter of the Palentine is occasionally seen on Long Island sound and is the forerunner of a gale of wind. She was a Dutch trading vessel and was wrecked off Block Island in 1752. The wreckers, it is said, made short work of her, stripping her fore and aft and setting fire to the hull.

As she drifted blazing off the coast a human form was visible amid the flames, the form of a female passenger, left to perish on the doomed craft. Since and generally upon the anniversary of the wreck a phantom ship with blazing hull, charred spars and scorched sails and rigging has been seen cruising off Block Island.

Whittier recorded the legend in graceful verse as well as that of a ghostly cruiser that sailed from a New England port of her last voyage, which he termed "The Dead Ship of Salem." In the seventeenth century a ship was about to sail from Salem to England. Her cargo was on board, sails bent and passengers on deck, when two passengers came hurriedly off and engaged passage. The couple were a young man and a young woman, who, so tradition records, were remarkable for their bearing and beauty.

Who they were or whence they came no one in Salem town could tell. The ship being detained by adverse winds, the mysterious couple excited the suspicions of the townspeople, who viewed them as uncanny and prophesied disaster to the vessel if allowed to sail in her. But the master, a bluff and stern sailor, refused to listen and finally departed on a Friday.

The vessel never reached her destination and was never spoken, but later in the year incoming vessels reported sighting a craft with luminous rigging and sails and shining hull and spars. She was sailing with all canvas set against the wind, with a crew of dead men standing in the shrouds and leaning over the rail, while upon the quarterdeck stood a young and beautiful couple. —New York Herald.

Funerals in China.

Funerals in China are most elaborate, no expense being spared to give the departed a grand send off, no matter what his station in life. Indeed, bankruptcy, owing to the lavishness of a burial ceremony, is no uncommon thing. The never ending train of ceremonials that follow the demise of a near relative is apt in many instances to take not only all the time of the descendants, but all their wealth. For 100 days after the demise an altar is maintained in the home of the surviving relatives, before which they bow and weep, not once, but often daily. Relatives are gathered from far and near and quartered on the already afflicted family. Priests are retained for many days to aid in the ceremonials.

Egypt Made First Pens.

Pens were first made in Egypt and were made of a kind of reed. The ancients did not seem to know that good pens could be made from goose quills. One Isidore, who died in 636, mentions both reeds and feathers as suitable pens. Swan quills as being even better than goose quills were referred to in 1520. Steel pens were invented in the first part of the nineteenth century. People were slow to use them, because the metal was not sufficiently elastic. Perry cut slits in steel pens in 1830, and that settled goose quills.

Raid of the Tuareks.

It is their curious social life which forces the Tuareks, living in the Sahara back of Tripoli, to raid caravans. The mother has all the rights over the children, and all the property is in the hands of the women. To marry a wife a Tuarek must pay a large sum to the bride and her mother, and the only way to get the necessary wealth is a successful raid, for the male Tuarek's ordinary occupation—camel farming and carrying loads for traders—gets him hardly enough profit to live by.

A Great Advantage.

A school principal was lecturing his teachers upon efficiency. "What would be thought," he demanded, "of a glove-maker who, at the close of the season, found 10 per cent of his stock returned because it fell below standard requirements? Why should we require 100 per cent efficiency of the glove-maker and only 90 per cent of a teacher?" "Because," responded a teacher, "he can select his kids!"

MERCHANT'S WIFE OF PARIS

Relieved of a Tape Worm that Fills Glass Jar.

Mrs. Charles Munson, the wife of the well known dry goods merchant after using Andes' Prescription, says:

"For a number of years I have had every ache and pain that woman could possibly have. I did not sleep well at night. Was restless and would get up each morning feeling badly. My stomach would get full of gas after eating, and I would belch a great deal. There was few days in each month but what I would have splitting headaches and at times would have bad dizzy spells. My tongue was coated. At times I would have a good appetite, and then have none for days and would only eat the lightest of foods. I heard so much of Andes' Prescription, I decided to give it a trial. I have used less than three bottles when to my surprise, I passed a tape worm that filled a quart glass jar and some say it is more than 100 feet long. This has been more than a month ago and today I am well and as strong as I ever was in my life and I want to say to any woman who has suffered as I have to be sure to try Andes' as it never fails. I would not take $1,000 for the good the medicine has done me."

This tape worm was on exhibition in the Varden Drug Store and many saw it alive and moving like a snake. It was the most unusual sight seen there in years. Paris and Bourbon county has been stirred a never before by this remarkable cure and many others are telling of wonders that Andes' Prescription and Oil are accomplishing in their case.

R. H. White & Co., and The Bassett Drug Co., have the exclusive sale of Andes' Medicines in Montgomery county.
